

Abstract of the Disclosure

In a system configuring and executing an application by combining a plurality of components, a method suitable for the type of a component is selected from a plurality of object managing methods, and an object caching part and an object persistence processing part corresponding to the method are included in a component base.

0012552-022104
FOI220-29521560